EE Computer Services offers non-profits a fundraising opportunity
Winners to receive Windows 7, consulting services

Local technology consulting firm, EE Computer Services, is offering local non-profit organizations a fundraising opportunity as well as a chance to win free software and computer services. Company founder Greg Edson is excited to donate two prize packages consisting of Windows 7 Ultimate plus installation consulting. Each package has a retail value over $500. Participating non-profits will sell raffle tickets for one package, and the non-profit that sells the winning ticket wins the matching prize.

The fundraiser runs from November 1st through December 31st with the winner to be drawn at the New Year's Eve celebration in North Conway. Up to 20 non-profit organizations from Western Maine and the Mount Washington Valley are invited to participate. EE Computer Services will provide program information, signs, business cards, and raffle tickets at no charge. Participating non-profits will sell the tickets ($2 each or $10 for 7 tickets) and retain all monies generated.

“We have a vibrant non-profit community that addresses many fundamental needs in the region” says Greg Edson, “EE Computer Services is happy to support the organizations that, in-turn, support us so well”.

EE Computer Services requests that participants use the signage provided, display EE Computer Services business cards in close proximity, and provide a weekly report on the number of tickets sold.

Judy Ferguson, office manager of CPI Controls in Bridgton, Maine, says, “Greg is very dependable, easy to work with and computer savvy. What a lifesaver! If you are fortunate enough to win this raffle, you won't be disappointed.”
